Poems You Ought to Know

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fall to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

Certain Maxims of Hafiz

By RUDYARD KIPLING.

If it be pleasant to look on, stalled in the packed serai.
Does not the Young Man try its temper and pace ere he buy?
If She be pleasant to look on, what does the Young Man say?
"Lo! She is pleasant to look on, give Her to me to-day!"

Yea, though a Kafir die, to him is remitted Jehannum. If he borrowed in life from a native at sixty per cent, per annum.

The pain of one maiden's refusal is drowned in the pain of the next.

If He play, being young and unskilful, for shekels of silver and gold. Take His money, my son, praising Allah. The kid was ordained to be sold.

With a "weed" among men or horses verily this is the best. That you work him in office or dog-cart lightly—but give him no rest.

If we fall in the race, though we win, the hoof-slide is scarred on the Though Allah and Earth pardon Sin, remaineth for ever Remorse,

By all I am misunderstood!" if the Matron shall say, or the Maid: "Alas! I do not understand," my son, be thou nowise afraid. In vain in the sight of the Bird is the net of the Fowler displayed.

Newspaper Tributes.

Henry Clay Payne, a concern in New York gathered from the papers published throughout the United States 4,685 newspaper stories of the life and career of the deceased.

These items were carefully mounted on Irish linen leaves and bound in 6 volumes, 400 pages to the book. A cover of genuine seal was appropriately lettered in gold and the entire material, representing the work of many people for several months, has just been delivered to Mrs. Payne at Milwaukee.

Mr. Burrelle, who makes a specialty of this unique method of preserving family history, also compiled four volumes containing the letters, telegrams and cards of condolence received by the family, all constituting a family heirloom that will be handed down to future genera-eral developments of the press clipping industry and Mr. Burrelie has made a special study years ago.
